Full analysis

Security Alert

Fortinet, Sophos flagged this site in external intelligence checks, indicating elevated compromise/scam exposure that requires immediate caution.

100percentcommissionforrealtors.com is a real-estate brokerage recruitment website presenting Home Max Realty International as a Florida-focused brokerage for new and experienced agents. Its apparent business model is to attract agents through commission arrangements, brokerage support, marketing benefits, and related transaction or membership fees rather than through a consumer-facing online storefront.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

Confirmed external threat indicators materially outweigh the site's otherwise ordinary presentation. The site advertises a conventional brokerage-recruitment model, and the page analysis found no login form, hidden sensitive form, wallet interaction, or obvious credential-harvesting behavior. However, external security intelligence recorded 11 malicious detections, including alerts from two major security providers, and the domain is confirmed on external blacklists. This creates a significant risk for sensitive interaction even though no brand impersonation, phishing page, or conflicting legal identity was observed in the supplied page evidence. The site's runtime behavior also generated substantial external activity, including non-whitelisted requests and repeated console errors, which warrants technical caution but is secondary to the confirmed reputation findings.

EVIDENCE

- Domain registration records show creation on 2015-10-15, with an age of 10.85 years.
- Historical captures show 59 archive snapshots from 2008-04-13 through 2025-08-29, spanning 18 tracked years.
- The homepage contains no login form, hidden sensitive form, wallet-connect function, or clipboard-hijacking behavior.
- External reputation assessment recorded 11 malicious detections and a confirmed blacklist status.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The homepage and contact/about material identify Home Max Realty International, describe Florida real-estate brokerage services, and publish two Florida addresses and a telephone contact. The site presents Platinum, Gold, and Silver commission plans, including a $295-per-transaction option, a $99 monthly-fee option, and an 80% commission option without fees. It also promotes free buyer and seller leads, global marketing, broker support, and the ability to set listing commissions. These are specific commercial claims, but the supplied material does not provide a license number, licensing authority, or independently verified operator identity. That is a regulatory and disclosure gap requiring confirmation before any agent agreement, fee payment, or reliance on the brokerage's representations. The available third-party broker dataset contained no matching record; this is contextual only and does not establish licensing status.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage lists "Terms and Conditions," "Privacy Policy," "DMCA Copyright Notice," "ADA Accessibility," and "Fair Housing Declaration," but no license number or licensing authority is shown in the supplied content.
- The homepage publishes the business name, two Florida addresses, and a telephone contact as its principal identity and contact disclosures.
- Hosted on AS46606 (Unified Layer, US); TLS certificate issued by YR2 at DV validation level, valid to 2026-10-30.

What to Verify Next

Before engagement, an independent check should confirm that the brokerage and responsible broker are currently licensed with the relevant Florida real-estate regulator, and that the published addresses correspond to an operating business. Any proposed agent agreement should be reviewed for fee obligations, termination terms, commission calculations, lead ownership, and dispute procedures. Payment requests should use a protected business-payment method, with the counterparty and payment beneficiary independently confirmed through an offline or separately sourced channel.

EVIDENCE

- The commission-plan claims on the homepage create a specific need to reconcile advertised fees and commission percentages with the proposed written agreement.
- The contact/about material provides identifiable business details that can be checked independently rather than relying solely on the website.
- The supplied identity-verification status remains unverified, so the site's own business-name claims should not be treated as proof of the real-world operator.

Summary Verdict

The overall posture is critical trust risk, driven by corroborated external malicious detections and blacklist placement despite a conventional real-estate recruitment presentation. The website may appear commercially coherent at the content level, but the available evidence does not support treating it as suitable for sensitive interaction or financial commitment.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site resolves through Unified Layer infrastructure in the United States, with no CDN or WAF edge layer detected in the supplied network assessment. The hosting arrangement and valid TLS provide transport and service-continuity context only; they do not offset the external reputation risk.

Closing Assessment

Sensitive actions should remain suspended unless the brokerage, responsible license holder, agreement terms, and payment destination are independently validated through authoritative channels.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about 100percentcommissionforrealtors.com at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
