Full analysis

Overview

The website is an Arabic-language informational resource focused on family counseling, presenting guides, summaries, audio-oriented educational material, and outreach for sponsors, donors, and newsletter subscribers rather than an apparent commercial financial service.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

The site content itself presents as an educational family-guidance resource and contains no observed login form, credential-collection mechanism, wallet interaction, or on-page impersonation indicator. However, this benign presentation conflicts with confirmed external reputation findings: the domain is blacklisted across two external sources, and multiple external detections classify it as malicious or suspicious. This contradiction creates a material risk for sensitive interactions even though the visible homepage does not resemble a conventional phishing page. The real-world operator identity also remains unverified, so the apparent academic and institutional presentation should not be treated as proof of ownership or affiliation.

EVIDENCE

- External reputation telemetry records 2 malicious detections and 2 suspicious detections, together with confirmed blacklist hits from 2 external sources.
- The homepage is an informational family-guidance page with no login form, hidden form, password submission, or wallet-connect activity observed.
- Domain records show registration on 2019-12-18 and an age of 6.67 years.
- Web-archive records contain 38 snapshots spanning 2020–2025, with 6 years tracked.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The homepage describes family counseling as a professional field and identifies Dr. Abdullah bin Nasser Al-Sadhan as the general supervisor, attributing to him academic, social-development, and professional affiliations. These are on-site claims and do not independently verify the operating entity or its institutional relationships. The site appears to rely on sponsorship, donations, or grants, but the available content does not present a licensing claim or registration number; this is a transparency point requiring confirmation rather than evidence of fraud. The domain is registered through Instra Corporation Pty Ltd. and uses identified transport security, but those technical facts do not establish legal status.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage names Dr. Abdullah bin Nasser Al-Sadhan as general supervisor and presents an academic and professional biography.
- The homepage includes sponsor, donor, and publication-support outreach but no visible license number or regulatory registration disclosure.
- The domain registration record lists Instra Corporation Pty Ltd. as registrar and shows an expiration date of 2026-12-18.
- The site is served from AS202105, WafaiNet-AS – Al wafai International For Communication and Information Technology LLC, SA; its TLS certificate is issued by YR1 at DV validation level and is valid to 2026-11-06.

What to Verify Next

Before any sensitive interaction, an independent party should confirm the operating organization and the named supervisor through authoritative institutional or professional channels, rather than relying solely on the website biography. Any sponsorship or donation arrangement should be validated through independently obtained contact details and documented payment-protection terms. The site's official contact channels should also be confirmed through an offline or independently sourced route before exchanging personal information.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage provides the named supervisor’s biography and a “contact the supervisor” pathway, supporting independent identity confirmation.
- The homepage offers sponsor and donor outreach, making independent confirmation of the beneficiary and payment destination appropriate.
- The available page content includes a newsletter signup but no sensitive form, supporting a distinction between passive content access and information submission.

Summary Verdict

The overall posture is moderate trust with elevated risk for sensitive interactions. The site’s visible educational purpose and absence of common credential-harvesting behavior are outweighed by confirmed external reputation contradictions and the lack of independently verified operator identity. Passive review of public material is materially less exposed than account, credential, donation, or other consequential engagement.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site resolves directly to one identified origin address rather than a detected CDN or WAF edge, so there is no evident edge-layer separation mitigating direct infrastructure exposure. The hosting environment is identifiable in Saudi Arabia, which supports technical attribution but is not evidence of legitimacy.

Closing Assessment

The appropriate interim posture is passive, read-only use while independent identity and reputation checks remain outstanding; account creation, credential submission, donations, and other sensitive actions should be deferred until those checks are satisfactorily completed.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about adillah.org at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
