Full analysis

Overview

Airship.com presents a corporate marketing site for Airship, an enterprise customer-experience and messaging platform that helps organizations orchestrate personalized interactions across mobile, web, email, SMS, and other channels through subscription software, professional services, and enterprise engagements.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No contradictions were observed. The site's content is consistent with a professional B2B SaaS business rather than phishing, credential harvesting, financial fraud, or brand impersonation: the homepage presents customer-experience software, product capabilities, case studies, and enterprise contact pathways, while the supplied page analysis found no login form, sensitive form, hidden form, crypto functionality, or wallet activity. External reputation checks were clean, with no malicious, suspicious, phishing, or blacklist findings, and the domain has a long registration history through MarkMonitor. The available evidence therefore supports an apparently legitimate, established website, although the real-world operator identity remains independently unverified.

EVIDENCE

- Homepage: Corporate product content describes Airship's customer-experience platform, cross-channel messaging, AI agents, analytics, and no-code experiences; no phishing or impersonation indicators were identified.
- Homepage technical behavior: No login form, hidden form, password-external form, wallet connection, wallet-drainer activity, clipboard hijacking, or cloaking was detected.
- External reputation observation: 0 malicious detections, 0 suspicious detections, and no blacklist or phishing finding were recorded for the domain.
- Domain registration record: Registered 1996-01-29; approximately 30.55 years old; registrar MarkMonitor Inc.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The site presents an enterprise software and services model rather than a financial, investment, or other visibly regulated offering. Its stated capabilities include customer data management, surveys, recommendations, performance analytics, push notifications, SMS/RCS/MMS, email, mobile wallet, app and web destinations, and AI-assisted optimization. The homepage also promotes a "476% ROI" Total Economic Impact claim and enterprise outcomes; these are commercial performance claims that should be assessed as part of procurement diligence, not treated as regulatory authorization. No regulated-license claim or registration number was identified in the supplied content, and the operator's real-world identity is not independently verified. That limitation does not create a scam contradiction, but it warrants ordinary commercial-identity and contracting checks before payment or credential-related engagement.

EVIDENCE

- Homepage: Describes an enterprise customer-experience platform with subscription software, professional services, demonstrations, and account-management engagements.
- Homepage: Presents the "Total Economic Impact™ of Airship: 476% ROI" claim alongside case studies and calls to discuss results.
- Transport encryption: TLS certificate issued by WR3, validation level DV, valid to 2026-10-13T06:55:41+00:00.
- Hosting telemetry: Served from AS396982, Google Cloud Platform – Google LLC, US.

What to Verify Next

Before entering into a commercial relationship, procurement should independently confirm the contracting entity, obtain the applicable terms, privacy and data-processing documentation, and reconcile the stated business entity with invoices and payment instructions. The ROI and case-study claims should be supported by underlying methodology, customer references, or contractually defined performance terms where material. Any account or payment interaction should use contact details and payment instructions confirmed through an independently sourced corporate channel, with standard payment protections retained.

EVIDENCE

- Homepage: Directs enterprise prospects toward contact and meeting-booking workflows rather than immediate consumer checkout.
- Homepage: Uses case studies, product resources, and quantified commercial-outcome claims as principal sales materials.
- Site presentation: The supplied page is categorized as a marketing/product page for enterprise SaaS, not as a regulated financial-service portal.

Summary Verdict

Available evidence is consistent with an established, apparently legitimate website and supports a high-trust, low-risk posture. No scam, phishing, impersonation, or other contradictory signal was identified, but the evidence does not independently prove the real-world operator identity.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site resolves to three likely origin addresses in Google Cloud infrastructure, with no CDN edge layer detected in the supplied network posture. This is a conventional enterprise-hosting arrangement; the presence of mainstream cloud infrastructure is a mitigating technical signal, not proof of corporate legitimacy.

Closing Assessment

Normal browsing is proportionate to the assessed posture, while credential submission, contracting, and payment decisions should follow standard independent merchant-identity, contractual, and payment-protection controls.

What the analysis found

No rule findings contributed to this verdict.

Identity verification

Status	UNVERIFIED
Identity score	30/100
Identity verification confidence	50%

- No on-site identity signals detected

Identity verification measures whether the site can be independently connected to a real-world brand or person. It is separate from the classification confidence.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about airship.com at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
