Overview

Arab Bank Egypt's website presents consumer and corporate banking services, including accounts, cards, lending, remittances, payments, digital banking, branches, and compliance information. Its apparent purpose is to provide conventional banking services and customer access channels.

No phishing, malware, brand-impersonation, or conflicting-identity indicators were observed. The homepage presents a coherent banking model, includes a standard login pathway, and shows no hidden forms, wallet activity, cloaking, or suspicious external form destinations. The site also has an established traffic footprint and no material external reputation warnings.

The site provides extensive corporate, compliance, service, contact, branch, and financial-information content, but the supplied evidence does not establish an independently verified license or registration number on the pages reviewed. This is a regulatory-transparency item requiring confirmation, not evidence of impersonation or fraud. The site's banking presentation is consistent with an established commercial institution, while the available third-party broker dataset contained no matching soft warning or reputation note.

Before high-value financial activity, confirm the institution and applicable authorization through the relevant Egyptian banking or financial-services registry, and independently confirm official contact and account-access channels using a trusted offline source.

The website has a moderate trust posture: its identity presentation, banking content, technical controls, and observed behavior are broadly consistent with a legitimate commercial banking presence. No direct scam or impersonation contradiction was identified, but the available evidence does not support treating every high-value transaction as fully verified.

The site resolves to a single Jordan-based Al-Bank Al-Arabi PLC infrastructure address rather than a third-party CDN edge. This provides a comparatively direct hosting attribution; the valid EV certificate naming Arab Bank PLC is a mitigating technical signal, but infrastructure alone does not establish regulatory status.

Normal browsing and account login are proportionate uses; independent institutional and authorization checks should precede high-value transfers or other sensitive financial commitments.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about arabbank.com.eg at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
