Full analysis

Overview

BDTEX presents itself as a Bangladesh-based apparel and textile supplier serving business customers through garment, accessory, safety-equipment, and sourcing offerings. The website functions primarily as a corporate product catalogue, with an apparent business model based on B2B textile sales and exports rather than financial services or consumer investment activity.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

The site's apparent commercial purpose and page content do not show visible payment forms, login functionality, investment offers, cryptocurrency features, or page-level brand-impersonation indicators. However, an external blacklist hit is confirmed, creating a material contradiction that outweighs the otherwise ordinary catalogue presentation. Behavioral testing also identified two suspicious inline scripts and a substantial post-interaction DOM change; these are technical anomalies rather than proof of malicious conduct, but they reinforce the need for a restricted interaction posture. No conflicting legal-entity names were observed across the available identity content.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage and product navigation identify a corporate apparel catalogue covering men's, women's, and children's wear, accessories, and safety equipment.
- External reputation assessment recorded 1 malicious and 1 suspicious detection, with the domain also present on an external blacklist.
- Behavioral testing recorded 2 suspicious inline scripts and a maximum post-interaction DOM difference of 1,311.
- The homepage contained no login form, hidden sensitive form, external password form, wallet connection, or external network activity.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The site provides company-description and contact content, but its legal and regulatory disclosure is unclear. It does not present a visible license claim or license number, which is a transparency gap for a prospective B2B counterparty and should not be treated alone as evidence of fraud. The site refers to experience, exports, and turnover, but the supplied evidence does not independently establish the legal entity, corporate registration, ownership, or regulatory standing behind those claims. Three social-network links provide supporting identity context, although the operator's real-world identity remains likely rather than independently verified.

EVIDENCE

- The About page presents a company overview and mission for the apparel and textile business.
- The Contact page provides contact information and an address.
- The site's available business pages contain claims concerning experience, exports, and turnover but no visible license or registration number.
- The homepage title is "Home - BDTEX," with no detected structured business metadata or meta description.

What to Verify Next

Before any commercial engagement, the counterparty should obtain the full legal entity name, registration documentation, physical operating details, and trade references through an independently sourced channel. Any proposed purchase should be supported by a written quotation, contractual terms, inspection or sampling arrangements, and payment protections appropriate to an unfamiliar overseas supplier. Official contact channels and social profiles should be confirmed independently, and any registration or export-related claims should be checked with the relevant Bangladeshi corporate or trade authority.

EVIDENCE

- The About and Contact pages are the appropriate locations for reconciling the stated company identity, address, and operating history.
- The Products and Services pages define the scope of goods and services that should be reflected in any commercial quotation or contract.
- The site's visible content does not provide an independently validated registration or licensing reference for confirmation.

Summary Verdict

The overall posture is low trust, with a sensitive-interaction risk classification. The confirmed external reputation contradiction is decisive despite the site’s coherent corporate presentation and the absence of obvious financial or credential-collection functionality. The business identity appears plausible but is not independently verified.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site is hosted on Oracle Corporation infrastructure in the United States, with no CDN or WAF vendor detected and no identified origin candidates beyond the resolved hosting endpoint. The transport layer uses a valid domain-validated certificate, which protects transmission but does not establish the legitimacy of the operator or offset the external reputation concern.

EVIDENCE

- Served from AS31898, ORACLE-BMC-31898 - Oracle Corporation, US.
- TLS certificate issued by YR1, validation level DV, valid to 2026-10-12T09:27:07+00:00.
- Infrastructure resolution identified 1 unique IP, 0 edge IPs, and 0 likely origin candidates.

Closing Assessment

Pending independent counterparty and registration checks, activity should remain limited to passive review; credentials, sensitive business information, and financial commitments should not be submitted through the site.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about bdtex.com.bd at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
