Full analysis

Overview

Casa Saldão is a Brazilian e-commerce storefront selling furniture, appliances, and household goods directly to consumers through a conventional online retail model.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No identity contradictions, phishing indicators, brand impersonation, or confirmed malicious reputation signals were observed. The storefront presents coherent retail mechanics, including displayed prices, discounts, PIX and card payments, installment options, and reduced-price goods that may have minor cosmetic defects. These features are consistent with the stated business model rather than an investment, financial-return, or credential-harvesting scheme. The established domain history, continuous archival presence, and clean external reputation materially support the site's legitimacy.

- The domain registration record identifies Casa saldao as the owner and shows registration on 23 December 2021, making the domain approximately 4.61 years old.
- The web archive contains 445 snapshots spanning 15 March 2023 to 28 December 2025, representing 3 years of tracked activity with no detected repurposing or semantic drift.
- The homepage displays priced furniture and household merchandise with PIX, card, installment, discount, and delivery information.
- External reputation checks recorded 0 malicious and 0 suspicious detections, no safe-browsing alert, no reported abuse, and inclusion within the top one million globally ranked domains at rank 787,876.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The homepage provides a named commercial identity, physical address, company-registration details, customer-service information, and links to privacy, refund, exchange, shipping, and terms policies. This is an ordinary goods retailer rather than a financial or investment service, and the evidence contains no claim that it requires or holds a financial-services licence. No third-party broker profile was matched; that result has no adverse significance for this business model. Transport security is current and appropriately configured for standard website use.

- The homepage links to privacy, refund, exchange, shipping, and terms policies.
- The site's transport encryption uses a WE1-issued domain-validated certificate, valid until 4 October 2026.

- The homepage contains no cryptocurrency, investment-return, brokerage, or financial-licensing claims.

What to Verify Next

Before placing a material order, the purchaser should confirm the final price, delivery destination, freight charge, expected delivery date, and any cosmetic-condition disclosure shown at checkout. Refund and exchange conditions should be retained with the order record, and official contact channels may be independently confirmed when arranging unusually large or bespoke purchases.

- The homepage advertises delivery information, making the checkout-stage confirmation of freight and timing directly relevant.
- The observed page contained one newsletter form, with no sensitive-data form and no form submission to an untrusted destination.
- The storefront offers account login and registration, while behavioral testing found no credential submission to external forms.
- Interactive testing completed successfully without cloaking, wallet requests, clipboard manipulation, or suspicious inline scripts.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about casasaldo.com.br at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
