Full analysis

Overview

ComprasParaguai.com.br is a commercial price-comparison website focused on shopping in Paraguay, presenting visitors with product categories, prices, and offers from multiple third-party stores while expressly stating that it does not operate a store or sell products directly; its apparent model is referral, affiliate, advertising, or sponsored-listing revenue.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No contradictions were observed. The site's stated role as a comparison service is consistent with its product-listing format, and the available technical and reputation evidence does not indicate phishing, brand impersonation, malicious distribution, or blacklist activity. The absence of a login form, sensitive form, wallet connection, or hidden form during inspection further reduces the observed exposure for credential and payment capture. The site's interactive behavior generated substantial external requests and page changes, but these findings are more consistent with a dynamic commercial catalogue than with a confirmed abuse pattern, and no malicious behavioral capability was identified.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage identifies the service as a price comparator and states that it neither owns a store nor conducts product sales.
- The homepage presents multiple retail categories and third-party offers without a sensitive input form or hidden form.
- External reputation checks recorded zero malicious and zero suspicious detections, with no phishing or blacklist finding.
- The domain registration record shows creation on 2006-02-02 and an age of 20.54 years.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The site appears to function as an informational and referral marketplace rather than as a financial, investment, or other regulated service. Its direct disclaimer that it does not sell inventory helps clarify the commercial relationship, but the available pages do not establish the legal identity of the operating entity or independently verify a responsible merchant for each listed offer. The registration record names Daniel Martins, although the evidence does not independently connect that person to the website operator. Licensing is not presented as part of the site's stated business model; nevertheless, merchant identity, seller terms, returns, and payment responsibilities remain relevant because transactions are directed toward third-party stores. A third-party broker dataset produced no match, which is a limited reputational signal rather than a regulatory determination.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage's business disclosure describes a comparison service rather than a direct seller.
- The available site content does not provide an independently verified operator identity or regulated-service authorization.
- The registration record lists Daniel Martins as the named registrant.
- The site's transport encryption uses a DV certificate issued by WE1, valid to 2026-10-11.

What to Verify Next

Before a credential or payment interaction, the prospective user should independently confirm which merchant will receive the transaction, review that merchant's return and warranty terms, and ensure that payment protection applies to the final seller rather than to the comparison service. For higher-value purchases, the merchant's legal identity and contact channels should be checked through an independent route, and the final destination should be reviewed before submitting account or payment information.

EVIDENCE

- The site's stated non-seller role means the final merchant's terms govern the purchase.
- The homepage provides product discovery and comparison functions rather than a direct checkout relationship.
- Independent confirmation should focus on the named seller attached to each offer and the payment page reached from that offer.

Summary Verdict

Available evidence is consistent with an established, apparently legitimate website and supports a high-trust, low-risk posture with no observed scam or impersonation contradiction. The classification remains qualified because the real-world operator identity has not been independently verified.

Infrastructure Integrity

The website is served through Cloudflare's CDN/WAF infrastructure, with observed addresses located at CDN edge servers rather than a directly exposed origin. This provides a meaningful protective layer against routine network exposure, although CDN usage is a mitigating control and does not by itself establish legitimacy.

EVIDENCE

- Hosting is on AS13335 (CLOUDFLARENET - Cloudflare, Inc., US).
- Cloudflare edge addresses observed were 104.21.34.191, 172.67.164.49, 2606:4700:3033::6815:22bf, and 2606:4700:3035::ac43:a431.
- The TLS certificate is issued by WE1 with DV validation and expires on 2026-10-11.

Closing Assessment

Normal browsing and comparison activity is proportionate to the available evidence; account or payment interactions should remain conditional on independent confirmation of the final merchant, applicable consumer protections, and the destination’s contact and return arrangements.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about comprasparaguai.com.br at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
