Full analysis

Overview

The website is "Intelligent Living," a personal wellness and practitioner site presenting bodywork, pain-relief, holistic-healing, and energy-focused services. Its apparent business model is the promotion of individual practitioner sessions or appointments arranged through contact rather than through an integrated online transaction flow.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No contradictions were observed across the available evidence: there are no confirmed phishing, impersonation, blacklist, or malicious-reputation findings, and the site's content does not request credentials or sensitive information. A behavioral sensor recorded wallet-sensitive and wallet-drainer classifications during both runs, but this signal is not supported by the page: the site presents no cryptocurrency features, wallet connection, financial workflow, or sensitive form, and the corrected behavioral interpretation classified the activity as benign. The available evidence therefore supports a low scam or impersonation concern, while not independently proving the operator's real-world identity.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage identifies “Intelligent Living” and describes personal experience helping people become “Pain Free,” with no brand-impersonation indicators.
- Domain registration records show creation on 2020-02-03, making the domain 6.55 years old.
- Historical records show 61 archive snapshots spanning 2011–2025, with no suspicious repurposing or semantic category change identified.
- External reputation checks recorded zero malicious findings, zero suspicious findings, and no blacklist or phishing hit.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The site appears to represent a small personal wellness practice, not a platform presenting a regulated financial or investment service. The homepage makes wellness and healing claims, including references to bodywork, life force, energy potential, and helping people become pain-free, but no professional license, licensing authority, registration number, or formal credential disclosure is presented in the supplied content. This is a transparency and regulatory-verification gap rather than evidence of fraud. The operator identity remains independently unverified; the registration record names “Nicknair, Guy” and uses Launchpad.com Inc. as registrar, but those details do not by themselves establish that the individual is the service provider.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage is categorized as an informational personal-service page with a low page-risk assessment and no transactional or sensitive-data form.
- The domain is registered through Launchpad.com Inc. and expires on 2029-02-03.
- The site is served on AS31898, identified as ORACLE-BMC-31898 / Oracle Corporation, US.
- The transport certificate is valid, uses DV validation, is issued by YR1, and expires on 2026-10-27.

What to Verify Next

Before an appointment or payment, the prospective customer should independently confirm the practitioner’s legal name, applicable professional credentials, service terms, cancellation and refund arrangements, and the official channel used for scheduling. Any payment request should be checked for a clear payee identity and supported by a payment method offering appropriate consumer protection. If the service is subject to local health or professional regulation, the relevant public registry should be consulted using the practitioner’s independently confirmed name.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage describes paid or appointment-based wellness services but does not show an integrated booking, payment, or credential-verification workflow.
- The supplied page content contains no license number, licensing authority, or formal registration disclosure.
- The site contains no login form, hidden sensitive form, or external password-submission destination.

Summary Verdict

Available evidence is consistent with an established, apparently legitimate website and supports a high-trust, low-risk posture. The site is suitable for ordinary informational engagement, but the operator's real-world identity is not independently verified, so legitimacy should be understood as apparent rather than proven.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site resolves directly to a single US-hosted address on AS31898, operated by Oracle Corporation, with no CDN or WAF layer detected in the supplied infrastructure facts. The valid DV TLS certificate provides transport protection for connections, while the hosting arrangement is a mitigating technical signal only and does not establish operator legitimacy.

Closing Assessment

Ordinary browsing is proportionate to the observed posture; credential or payment interactions should follow independent confirmation of the merchant or practitioner identity, service terms, and payment protections.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about guynicknair.com at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
