Full analysis

Overview

Juros Baixos is a Brazilian consumer-credit marketplace and loan-simulation platform that presents borrowing options from partner financial institutions, with the apparent business model of connecting applicants with lenders rather than issuing loans directly.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No blacklist, phishing, malware, brand-impersonation, or conflicting-identity signals were observed. The homepage presents a coherent financial-services proposition, and the available reputation checks found no malicious or suspicious detections. The registration record names “JB - AG DE SRV E NEGOCIOS EM GERAL LTDA,” but the real-world operator remains independently unverified; this limits identity certainty without creating an observed contradiction.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage was assessed with no reported red flags, no login-form phishing indicators, and no suspected brand impersonation.
- The domain registration record shows creation on 2016-04-21 and an age of 10.32 years.
- Historical coverage records 147 archive snapshots from 2002-09-29 through 2026-05-14, spanning 25 years.
- External reputation checks recorded zero malicious detections, zero suspicious detections, and no blacklist hit.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The site identifies itself as a technology intermediary and correspondente bancário rather than a direct lender. Its stated offering includes loan simulation, comparison across more than 40 partner institutions, multiple credit products, and business-to-business API or embedded-finance solutions; the commercial model is described as commission or revenue-share based on successful loan origination and integrations. The homepage also states that no advance deposit is required for loan release and displays consumer-facing metrics such as more than 7.5 million registered Brazilians, more than R$12 billion in monthly simulations, and more than R$500 million in originated credit. These claims and the financial nature of the service warrant ordinary confirmation of partner identities, applicable authorization, fees, and consumer terms. No specific license authority or license number is recorded in the supplied site analysis, so licensing remains a verification matter rather than evidence of misconduct.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage labels the service as a loan marketplace and states that it connects consumers with more than 40 financial institutions.
- The homepage provides a loan simulator showing an illustrative monthly interest rate of 3.99%, while noting that terms vary by institution.
- The site's transport encryption uses a DV certificate issued by Amazon RSA 2048 M01, valid through 2026-12-04.
- Hosting telemetry identifies AS16509, Amazon.com, Inc. (AMAZON-02), United States.

What to Verify Next

Before credential or payment interactions, independently confirm the legal operator and the identity of each proposed lending partner through authoritative channels. Review the applicable loan terms, total cost of credit, commissions, data-sharing provisions, cancellation rights, and complaint routes on the legal, FAQ, and product pages. Payment activity should use a method with established dispute and consumer-protection mechanisms, and contact channels should be confirmed through an independent route where a material transaction is contemplated.

EVIDENCE

- The site contains FAQ and legal or disclosure content relevant to the intermediary relationship.
- Product pages cover several borrowing categories and provide simulation entry points rather than presenting the platform as the direct lender.
- The contact and support content provides channels for follow-up with the service.
- The observed homepage interaction used one loan-simulator form; no sensitive external password form or hidden form was detected.

Summary Verdict

The available evidence supports a high-trust, low-risk posture for ordinary interaction with an apparently established website. Its content, technical operation, historical presence, and clean reputation are consistent with a legitimate consumer-finance platform, while the operator's real-world identity is not independently verified.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site is protected by AWS CloudFront CDN/WAF infrastructure, with observed traffic served through Amazon edge addresses rather than a directly exposed origin. This is a mitigating technical-control signal that reduces straightforward origin exposure, but it is not independent proof of the operator's legitimacy.

EVIDENCE

- Four observed edge addresses were associated with AWS CloudFront: 18.165.140.12, 18.165.140.122, 18.165.140.129, and 18.165.140.82.
- All observed edge addresses mapped to AS16509, Amazon.com, Inc.
- The site's TLS certificate is Amazon RSA 2048 M01, DV validated, with expiry at 2026-12-04T23:59:59+00:00.

Closing Assessment

Ordinary use is proportionate to the high-trust assessment, but independent merchant-identity, contractual-term, and payment-protection checks should precede the submission of credentials or completion of a financial transaction.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about jurosbaihos.com.br at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
