Full analysis

Overview

The website is the Taiwanese edition of Marie Claire, presenting professionally produced fashion, beauty, entertainment, travel, food, arts, and lifestyle journalism supported by advertising, subscriptions, memberships, sponsored content, newsletters, and shopping referrals.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No identity contradictions, phishing behavior, brand impersonation, or malicious activity were observed. The content, commercial model, and registered identity align with an established consumer magazine rather than a deceptive financial or credential-harvesting operation. Its long-established domain, substantial traffic footprint, clean external reputation, and consistently branded editorial material provide strong, convergent evidence of legitimacy.

- The domain registration record identifies MARIE CLAIRE ALBUM as both owner and organization; the domain was registered in 2000 (~26.14 years old) and is registered through HINET.
- The homepage presents extensive, dated editorial coverage with named authors and recognizable sections including FASHION, BEAUTY, ENTERTAINMENT, LIFESTYLE, COMMUNITY, TV, and SHOPPING.
- External reputation checks recorded 0 malicious and 0 suspicious detections, no search-safety warning, no reported abuse, and no signature matches for known threats.
- The site has an established global traffic footprint and is ranked within the top one million websites.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The site operates as a media and lifestyle publication, not as a broker, investment platform, payment provider, or other regulated financial service. No financial-license claim therefore requires substantiation. The registration record supplies a consistent organizational identity, while the homepage's extensive advertising and personalization model makes privacy and consent governance more relevant than financial-services authorization. No adverse broker-reputation match was identified.

- The domain registration record names MARIE CLAIRE ALBUM and shows registration extending to 2031-08-19.
- The homepage offers magazine subscription, membership, newsletter, and shopping functions without presenting trading, investment, cryptocurrency, or financial-return products.

- The site's hosting infrastructure serves content from AS396982 (GOOGLE-CLOUD-PLATFORM — Google LLC, US).
- The site's transport encryption uses a DV certificate issued by Go Daddy Secure Certificate Authority - G2, valid to 2026-11-11.

What to Verify Next

Prospective subscribers and commercial counterparties may confirm that payment or contract documentation names the expected operating entity, review the applicable subscription and cancellation terms, and use independently established corporate channels for material agreements. Visitors should also review consent selections before enabling optional personalization, location use, or cross-source data matching.

- The homepage includes subscription, membership, newsletter, and shopping pathways that may create separate contractual or payment terms.
- The consent-management interface requests permissions covering personalized advertising, device identifiers, analytics, precise geolocation, cross-source matching, and data sharing with numerous vendors.
- Dynamic testing found no hidden forms, external password forms, clipboard manipulation, wallet interaction, cloaking, or suspicious inline scripts.

Summary Verdict

The website is legitimate, established, and trustworthy, with coherent identity, mature editorial operations, strong reputation evidence, and no observed contradictory threat signals. Normal interaction, including membership login, subscriptions, shopping, and standard account use, is appropriate.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site resolves to a single likely origin hosted on mainstream cloud infrastructure, with no CDN or WAF vendor detected in the supplied observations. Direct origin visibility provides less edge-layer shielding than a dedicated CDN/WAF deployment, but it does not undermine the site's legitimacy and no infrastructure abuse pattern was observed.

Closing Assessment

Prospective users may engage normally, applying ordinary privacy-preference review and standard transaction due diligence appropriate to a commercial publication.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about marieclaire.com.tw at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
