Full analysis

Overview

The website is an established Russian e-commerce storefront offering natural and semiprecious stones, collectible minerals, gemstone jewelry, accessories, books, and related goods, with an apparent business model based on retail sales, promotions, and customer-loyalty incentives.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No identity contradictions, phishing behavior, brand impersonation, or other scam indicators were observed. The storefront presents coherent retail mechanics, including ruble-denominated pricing, cart functions, discounts, loyalty bonuses, and cashback credited to an internal bonus account. Its long domain tenure and continuous historical presence provide strong provenance, while the clean external reputation and established traffic footprint further support the conclusion that this is a legitimate operating website.

- Domain-registration records show that mineralmarket.ru was registered on 30 November 2011 and is approximately 14.68 years old, through registrar RU-CENTER-RU.
- Web-archive records contain 363 snapshots spanning 11 May 2012 to 18 May 2026, covering 15 tracked years without evidence of suspicious repurposing.
- External reputation checks recorded 0 malicious and 0 suspicious detections, no search-browsing safety alert, and no reported abuse against the hosting address.
- The homepage showed no hidden forms, external password forms, suspicious inline scripts, cloaking, clipboard manipulation, cryptocurrency-wallet activity, or brand-impersonation indicators.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The observed business is conventional retail rather than a financial, investment, brokerage, or cryptocurrency service, and the website makes no licensing claim requiring validation against a financial regulator. The homepage provides links for certificates, payment and delivery, returns, store information, and company background; however, the supplied page evidence does not establish the detailed contents of those disclosures. Product certificates should therefore be understood as commercial or authenticity documentation unless their issuing bodies and scope state otherwise. Transport encryption is current and appropriately protects browser communications, although domain validation authenticates control of the domain rather than the legal identity of the merchant.

- The homepage describes a Moscow retail presence, telephone support, product certificates, delivery arrangements, returns, and customer account functions.

- The observed page contained one promotional email-signup form, with no sensitive-data form or untrusted submission destination.
- The site's TLS certificate was issued by YR1 with DV validation and is valid until 9 October 2026.
- The homepage's product and service presentation contained no financial-investment, broker, token, staking, or leveraged-trading claims.

What to Verify Next

For material purchases, the purchaser should review the certificate applicable to the specific stone or jewelry item, confirm whether it identifies the specimen and issuing organization, and retain the product description. Delivery charges, inspection rights, return eligibility, refund timing, and the treatment of loyalty bonuses should be checked on the corresponding policy pages before payment. For unusually valuable items, the Moscow store and official customer-service channel may be independently confirmed and the payment recipient compared with the merchant identity shown during checkout.

- The certificates link on the homepage provides the appropriate starting point for checking product-authenticity documentation.
- The payment-and-delivery page is the identified source for fulfilment methods and charges.
- The returns page is the identified source for inspection, return, and refund conditions.
- The homepage states that purchased jewelry may be tried on upon receipt, making the applicable conditions relevant to pre-purchase review.

Summary Verdict

The site presents as a legitimate, established, and trustworthy online retailer. Its identity, operational behavior, historical continuity, and reputation evidence converge without contradiction, supporting normal interaction, including account login, checkout, and standard purchases.

Infrastructure Integrity

The website resolves directly to a likely origin address hosted by JSC Selectel in Russia, without a CDN or WAF layer. This is a conventional hosting arrangement; the identified network, stable responses, and valid encryption support technical integrity, while the infrastructure configuration alone is not treated as proof of business legitimacy.

- The site is served from AS49505 (SELECTEL – JSC Selectel, RU) at a single resolved hosting address.
- Infrastructure analysis identified one likely origin address, no edge addresses, and no detected CDN.
- Two observed browser-interaction runs completed successfully, with stable HTTP responses and no console errors.

Closing Assessment

Prospective customers may use the site normally, applying ordinary e-commerce diligence appropriate to the value and nature of the intended purchase.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about mineralmarket.ru at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
