Full analysis

Security Alert

Fortinet, Sophos flagged this site in external intelligence checks, indicating elevated compromise/scam exposure that requires immediate caution.

Molino Albor presents itself as an Argentine corporate website for a wholesale food manufacturer and distributor, offering natural grain and legume products to supermarkets, wholesalers, retailers, and commercial partners through product information and quotation inquiries.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

The site's visible content is consistent with a conventional food-supply business and does not show a login form, payment interface, phishing form, crypto functionality, or apparent brand impersonation. However, this benign presentation is contradicted by confirmed external blacklist status and malicious detections from multiple security sources, including two major security vendors. The contradiction is material: the site should not be treated as safe for credentials, payments, or other sensitive interaction unless the external detections are independently resolved. No separate conflicting legal-entity names, identity inconsistency, or confirmed impersonation signal was observed.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage presents Molino Albor as a food producer and wholesale supplier, with product, process, history, recipe, and commercial-contact content.
- External reputation telemetry recorded 10 malicious detections, 0 suspicious detections, and an active blacklist condition; Google Safe Browsing was recorded as not malicious.
- Domain registration continuity traces to 2013, with an age of approximately 13.13 years.
- Archive coverage records a first observation on 2013-07-04 and a last observation on 2026-03-10, spanning 14 years tracked.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The About, History, Process, Products, and Contact content describes a family-oriented Argentine food manufacturer claiming more than 75 years of activity, controlled traditional processes, traceability, and nationwide supply. These are substantive business claims, but the available evidence does not independently verify the operating entity or establish a regulatory authorization. No license, registration number, or licensing authority is claimed in the supplied site content, leaving a regulatory-disclosure gap rather than standalone proof of fraud. The operator identity remains unverified, and ownership opacity limits independent attribution. A broker-reputation dataset produced no match, which is only contextual and has no licensing significance.

EVIDENCE

- The site's business pages identify a wholesale food-manufacturing and distribution model covering grains, legumes, flours, and rice, with commercial quotation activity.
- The site's transport encryption is a valid DV certificate issued by YE2, valid through 2026-10-27.
- The hosting telemetry identifies AS13335, CLOUDFLARENET — Cloudflare, Inc., US.
- No license claim, license number, or licensing authority is present in the supplied business-model record.

What to Verify Next

Before any commercial engagement, independently confirm the legal entity, Argentine business registration, food-sector authorizations, and the authority of the proposed commercial representative through official registries or independently sourced records. Contact details should be validated through an offline or independently obtained channel, and any quotation, invoice, bank-account change, or payment request should be authenticated through a separate business route. Sensitive information and payment instructions should remain withheld until those checks are complete.

EVIDENCE

- The site provides a commercial contact and quotation workflow rather than a documented independently verified purchasing channel.
- The operator’s identity-verification status is unverified.
- The supplied regulatory record contains no license number or licensing authority to validate.

Summary Verdict

The overall posture is critical trust risk. Although the website presents a coherent corporate business profile, the confirmed external threat and blacklist contradictions dominate the assessment and make sensitive interaction inappropriate on the available evidence.

Infrastructure Integrity

Cloudflare CDN/WAF protection is present, and all four observed addresses are Cloudflare edge addresses on AS13335; the origin server was not observable in this analysis. This architecture can reduce direct origin exposure, but it is only a mitigating infrastructure control and does not establish site legitimacy or offset the external threat findings.

Closing Assessment

The appropriate institutional posture is passive review only until the external detections, operator identity, and proposed commercial arrangements have been independently validated.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about molinoalbor.com.ar at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
