Full analysis

Overview

The website is a Danish-language private psychologist practice presenting individual and couples therapy, telephone and face-to-face sessions, practical information, paid online products, downloadable guides, and newsletter content. Its apparent business model is the provision of professional therapy services and related educational materials.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

The site's visible content is consistent with a local therapy practice and does not present credential-harvesting forms, financial fraud mechanics, brand impersonation, or phishing features. However, this benign page presentation is contradicted by confirmed external blacklist status and three malicious detections, creating a material risk for sensitive interaction despite the absence of an on-site abuse pattern. No identity contradiction was observed across the supplied evidence, and the available linkage to a real-world person remains likely rather than independently verified.

EVIDENCE

- External reputation checks recorded 3 malicious detections and a confirmed blacklist hit.
- The homepage presents therapy services, contact details, prices, and educational resources rather than investment or payment-credential functionality.
- Browser inspection of the homepage found no login form, hidden form, password submission, wallet connection, or external posting activity.
- Domain registration telemetry records registration on 2012-12-12, with an age of 13.7 years; historical records span 2013–2025 with 73 archive snapshots across 13 years.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The pages describe a private psychologist practice and include practical information such as prices, opening hours, privacy material, referral information, cancellation rules, and a CVR number. The supplied content does not establish that a professional licence or regulatory registration has been independently verified; this is a verification gap rather than, by itself, evidence of fraud. The stated business model is ordinary professional service delivery with paid therapy and online educational products, but the external reputation contradiction materially limits the confidence that can be placed in the site's apparent legitimacy.

EVIDENCE

- The "About," "Practical," and "Contact" content identifies a psychologist practice, provides a physical address and telephone contact, and references a CVR number.
- The site includes pages for privacy policy, prices, health insurance, medical referral, cancellation rules, and opening hours.
- No professional licence authority or licence number is supplied in the available evidence.
- The site's transport encryption is DV TLS issued by YR2, valid until 2026-10-24.

What to Verify Next

Before any sensitive interaction, an independent check should confirm that the named practitioner and CVR details correspond to the relevant Danish business and professional registries. Contact details should be validated through an independently sourced channel, and any appointment, payment, or document exchange should be paused until the external reputation contradiction has been resolved. The official support and contact channels should also be confirmed through an offline or independently obtained source.

EVIDENCE

- The available identity linkage is classified as likely, not verified.
- The site publishes a CVR reference and physical contact details that can be checked against authoritative Danish records.
- The available regulatory disclosure state is unclear.
- The external reputation findings require resolution before sensitive use.

Summary Verdict

The website presents as a plausible professional-service practice, but its overall trust posture is low because the apparently benign site content is outweighed by confirmed external threat-reputation contradictions. The appropriate classification is elevated sensitive-interaction risk, with legitimacy remaining apparent rather than proven.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site is hosted on Google Cloud and resolves to a single directly observed address; no CDN, edge-IP layer, WAF, or origin-candidate separation was identified. This infrastructure is technically ordinary but provides no additional CDN/WAF mitigation for the reputation concerns described above.

Closing Assessment

Sensitive actions such as account access, submission of personal information, document exchange, or payment should be deferred until the practitioner’s independent identity and the external threat findings have been satisfactorily reconciled.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about psykologidialog.dk at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
