Full analysis

Overview

The website is the public-sector portal of Türkiye's Ministry of Health, presenting health-policy information, legislation, institutional announcements, public services, statistics, media content, and contact facilities for citizens and other stakeholders. Its apparent purpose is informational and administrative public-service delivery rather than commercial activity.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No contradictions were observed: the reviewed evidence shows no phishing, impersonation, blacklist, or malicious-reputation indicators. The homepage consistently identifies the institution as "T.C. Sağlık Bakanlığı" and provides coherent government functions, including legislation, ministry structure, public services, announcements, and official contact facilities. The site contains search and contact forms but no login form, hidden form, password-collection mechanism, wallet interaction, or external sensitive-form destination. The available evidence is therefore consistent with an established, apparently legitimate government website, although the real-world operator identity remains likely rather than independently proven.

EVIDENCE

- Domain registration: 11 March 1997; 29.45 years old; expiration 10 March 2027.
- Web archive: 5,000 snapshots spanning 1998–2025, covering 28 tracked years.
- Homepage analysis identified zero malicious or suspicious reputation findings, zero phishing indicators, and no suspected brand impersonation.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The legal and institutional sections provide ministry history, organizational units, policies, duties, internal controls, and extensive Turkish health legislation, including laws, regulations, circulars, directives, decrees, and communiqués. No commercial license claim or license number is presented; given the stated public-sector, non-commercial operating model, this is a disclosure-scope point rather than evidence of a scam. Independent broker-reputation data contained no matching entity, and the site's established public-service content is consistent with its institutional presentation. The page-level material does not independently verify the real-world operator, so institutional legitimacy should be described as apparent and evidence-consistent rather than proven.

EVIDENCE

- The ministry and legal sections identify the institution and publish statutes, regulations, organizational information, and public-service responsibilities.
- The site's transport encryption uses an OV certificate issued by GlobalSign RSA OV SSL CA 2018, valid through 2027-02-08.
- The homepage provides public-service navigation for e-Nabız, MHRS, and other ministry services rather than commercial purchasing or investment functions.

What to Verify Next

Before credential or payment interactions with any linked service, confirm that the destination remains within the expected official service pathway and independently validate the relevant institutional identity through a government directory or an independently obtained official contact route. For any service requiring regulated processing, confirm the responsible authority and applicable terms directly through the relevant public registry. Confirm that return, complaint, and payment-protection arrangements are clear before any transaction, if a linked service introduces commercial activity.

EVIDENCE

- The contact page publishes an institutional address and central switchboard, supporting independent confirmation through an offline route.
- The site map and service navigation expose distinct ministry service areas, allowing linked destinations to be checked against the stated public-service purpose.
- The reviewed forms are limited to search and contact functions, so any later request for credentials or payment should be assessed as a separate service interaction.

Summary Verdict

The overall posture is high trust and low risk. Available evidence is consistent with an established, apparently legitimate website whose content, purpose, historical continuity, technical controls, and external reputation converge without observed contradiction. Identity confidence is strong but not independently conclusive.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site resolves directly to one identified origin address and is hosted on AS9121, TTNNet - Turk Telekomunikasyon Anonim Sirketi, TR, in Türkiye; no CDN or WAF was detected. The absence of an intermediary edge layer means there is no CDN-based mitigation to credit, but the identified hosting arrangement presents no contradiction to the site’s public-sector purpose.

Closing Assessment

Normal informational use is proportionate to the available evidence; credential or payment activity associated with any linked service should follow the independent identity, service-destination, and payment-protection checks described above.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about saglik.gov.tr at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
