Full analysis

Overview

Tesla Wealth Dynamics presents itself as an online CFD trading platform offering access to forex, cryptocurrencies, shares, commodities, indices, ETFs, copy trading, and automated trading, while soliciting account registration and deposits through a broker-style website.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

The site presents material sensitive-interaction risk. Its homepage promotes fixed investment plans with stated per-trade returns and deposit ranges, solicits funds before service delivery, and retains custodial control over deposited money. It also provides login, registration, and payment/deposit forms, including a form destination assessed as untrusted. These mechanics are inconsistent with a low-risk financial-services posture, particularly alongside claims of regulation, insurance, awards, and professional execution that are not substantiated by corresponding legal identifiers in the supplied content. The domain is confirmed as blacklisted by an external reputation source; this is the decisive contradiction supporting the cautionary assessment. No brand-impersonation finding is present in the supplied page analysis, but the absence of that specific finding does not offset the confirmed blacklist and the site's deposit-driven investment model.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage advertises CFD trading across forex, cryptocurrencies, shares, indices, ETFs, and other markets, together with fixed-return investment plans and calls to create an account.
- The homepage contains three sensitive forms: login, signup, and payment/deposit; the payment-related form has an untrusted destination.
- External reputation telemetry records one malicious and one suspicious detection, with the domain marked as blacklisted.
- Domain registration telemetry records registration on 2026-05-14, an age of approximately 0.38 years, and expiry on 2027-05-14.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The site's legal and regulatory presentation is not sufficiently verifiable from the supplied pages. The homepage uses assertions such as "Regulated • Secure • Professional" and refers to insured client funds and awards, but the available content does not provide a verifiable regulator, license number, or clearly identified legal entity capable of substantiating those claims. This is a significant disclosure gap for a platform soliciting deposits. The available third-party broker context contains no matched record, which is contextual only and does not establish licensing or legality.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage displays regulatory, security, insurance, and awards claims without a corresponding regulator name or license number in the supplied content.
- The site navigation includes "Legal & Regulation," "About Us," and "Contact," but the supplied page content does not establish a verifiable corporate identity or regulatory authorization.
- The supplied broker-reputation context returned no match; this is not a licensing determination.

What to Verify Next

Before any engagement, an institution should independently confirm the operating legal entity and license directly through the relevant financial-services regulator's official register, using the regulator's own contact details rather than links or contact details supplied by the site. The stated insurance, awards, and client-fund protections should likewise be validated with the named issuing or underwriting organizations. Login, credential submission, deposits, and other financial interactions should not proceed unless those independent checks produce a consistent, verifiable result.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage's regulatory and insurance statements identify no regulator or license number that can be independently checked from the supplied content.
- The account and deposit functions are exposed directly through the homepage, making independent verification necessary before sensitive interaction.
- The site provides "Contact" and "Legal & Regulation" navigation, but the supplied material does not establish that those channels connect to a verified operator.

Summary Verdict

The website has a critical trust posture and presents unacceptable risk for sensitive interaction. The available evidence supports treating it as an untrusted financial-services website rather than as an established or verified trading provider. Its apparent identity is not independently verified, and the confirmed reputation contradiction prevents a favorable legitimacy conclusion.

Infrastructure Integrity

The site resolves directly to infrastructure associated with Hostinger International Limited in Ukraine, with no trusted CDN detected and four likely origin addresses identified. The transport layer uses a valid domain-validated certificate issued by YE2, which confirms encrypted transport but does not authenticate the operator or offset the site's reputation and content risks.

EVIDENCE

- Hosted on AS47583, AS-HOSTINGER — Hostinger International Limited, CY; infrastructure country recorded as UA.
- No CDN was detected; four likely origin IP addresses were identified and zero edge IP addresses were recorded.
- TLS certificate issued by YE2 at DV validation level, valid to 2026-12-10T18:11:29+00:00.

Closing Assessment

The appropriate disposition is to block or hold sensitive interaction pending independent regulatory and operator verification; credentials, deposits, and financial transactions should not be submitted on the basis of the site's own claims.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about teslawealthdynamics.com at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
