Full analysis

Overview

WOW is a German-language consumer streaming website offering monthly and annual subscriptions for films, series, and live sports, together with gift cards and promotional bundles such as Apple TV vouchers. Its apparent business model is recurring subscription revenue supplemented by premium packages and add-ons, with pricing, offer conditions, and service terms presented to visitors.

Scam/Impersonation Risk

No contradictions were observed. The site presents a coherent streaming-service proposition, with no detected phishing, brand-impersonation, malicious, or blacklist indicators. Behavioral testing did record external network activity, including non-whitelisted requests, but the same testing found no hidden forms, sensitive data forms, wallet activity, cloaking, clipboard manipulation, or other abuse mechanisms; this is therefore treated as a limited network anomaly rather than evidence of impersonation or fraud. The website remains apparently legitimate, while its real-world operator identity is not independently verified.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage presents a consistent subscription-streaming landing page for WOW, with no detected brand-impersonation indicators or sensitive login form.
- External reputation checks recorded 0 malicious detections, 0 suspicious detections, and no blacklist hit for the assessed domain.
- Behavioral testing completed 2 successful runs and recorded 24 external XHR requests, 4 non-whitelisted external requests, and 2 non-whitelisted external posts; hidden forms, password-external forms, wallet connections, and cloaking were all recorded as absent.
- Domain continuity dates to 2002, with an authoritative age of 24.51 years; the archive contains 1,460 snapshots spanning 2002–2026, with 25 years tracked.

Regulatory Verification Notes

The available page content includes commercial pricing, subscription conditions, and service terms, but it does not present a regulated-financial-service license or license number. For this consumer subscription model, that is a disclosure and merchant-verification matter rather than evidence of a scam. The operator's real-world identity is not independently verified, so on-site branding should be treated as consistent with an established website rather than proof of the underlying legal entity. Minor presentation gaps, including absent structured metadata and a missing meta description, affect discoverability and page completeness but do not establish regulatory or identity concerns.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage states subscription prices and conditions, including minimum-term and automatic-renewal provisions for the live-sports offer.
- The site is served from AS20940, AKAMAI-ASN1 – Akamai International B.V., NL.
- The transport certificate is OV-validated, issued by DigiCert Global G2 TLS RSA SHA256 2020 CA1, and valid to 2027-02-02.
- The homepage analysis recorded no structured data and no meta description.

What to Verify Next

Before credential or payment interactions, an independent check should confirm the merchant's legal identity through an official corporate or consumer-services source, reconcile the checkout entity with the published terms, and review cancellation, renewal, refund, and payment-protection arrangements. Contact channels should be confirmed through an independently sourced official route rather than relying solely on details encountered during browsing.

EVIDENCE

- The homepage provides subscription offers and links to further information on applicable terms.
- The business model involves recurring subscription payments and add-on purchases, making renewal and cancellation conditions material to the transaction.
- The available analysis did not independently verify the operator's connection to a real-world legal entity.

Summary Verdict

The website has a high-trust, low-risk posture and is apparently legitimate and consistent with an established consumer service. The evidence contains no observed scam, phishing, impersonation, or other contradictory signal, although the underlying operator identity remains unverified.

Infrastructure Integrity

The website is protected by Akamai CDN/WAF infrastructure, with observed edge service associated with AS20940 and no origin candidate identified in the analysis. This separation of the origin from directly observed edge addresses is a mitigating infrastructure control, but it is not, by itself, proof of legitimacy.

Closing Assessment

Ordinary use is proportionate to the assessment, subject to standard independent checks of merchant identity, subscription terms, and payment protections before credentials or funds are provided.

About this assessment

A trust score summarises the evidence TrustSniffer could collect about wowtv.de at assessment time. It is a starting point for your own judgement, not a guarantee: a high score means the signals were consistent with a legitimately operated site, a low or critical score means several risk patterns were present.

TrustSniffer assesses a website from the evidence it can collect at a point in time: domain registration and age, hosting and certificate, the content the site served, and third-party reputation feeds. A score is a summary of that evidence, not a guarantee and not a legal finding. There is no human rating and no user review in it. A site can change after it is assessed.
